Both problems, comprehensibility and classification, emerge from the same root: The book s complex structure. The 10 1/2 chapters seem to be autonomous episodes rather than parts of the same novel. Therefore, some critics have argued that it was rather a gathering of prose pieces, some fiction, others rather like essays and no homogeneous piece of prose. On the other hand, they have also discovered elements which do connect the chapters. Therefore, one could conclude that if A History [...] does not fit into established patterns of the genre novel, it must be a post-modern novel, as the linking elements make it more than just a collection of prose pieces . The other main problem, comprehensibility, is tightly connected with the issues structure and categorisation. Given that readers have discovered connecting elements and found that they add common meaning to the single chapters, they might still have unanswered questions. Does such a complicated structure imply a certain meaning that is beyond the content of the single stories and their common motifs Many post-modern books do not provide explanations, but A History of the World in 10 Chapters does. The half chapter , called Parenthesis , is the key to the novel. It contains clear, unambiguous statements about three major issues: history, love and truth. Although it does...
